

Independent Drop Wire/ Rod Securing Clip

Features

- Complies with NEC[®] Article 300.11, which requires that all independent support wires located in a fire-rated ceiling be easily distinguishable by color
- Installs in seconds
- Slotted attachment point allows for movement and keeps ceilings level
- Bright yellow color is easily identified by electrical inspectors
- No tools required for installation
- Forgiving design eliminates need for exact cutting of rod/wire
- Cleaner than painting; easier than tagging

The EC311 Independent Drop Wire/Rod Securing Clip, part of the CADDY[®] line from ERICO[®], offers an easy and effective solution to help prevent the swaying of drop wires and rods, which are used to support electrical components on main structures. The clip features a bright yellow color for easy identification by electrical inspectors, can be quickly installed without the use of tools, and is suitable for air handling spaces (plenum-rated).

To help prevent damage to the ceiling grid or electric devices in the event of a fire, the EC311 offers a convenient, easy-release design. The clip also provides significant cost and time savings for contractors when compared to alternative methods, such as painting or tagging.
